E. G. HANSELL
New Democracy

Successful candidate in Tuesday's election for the Macleod Federal Constituency.

HANSELL IS RE-ELECTED

E. G. Hansell, who represented the Macleod federal constituency at Ottawa for the past four years, was re-elected in Tuesday's balloting, with a majority of 1742 over the nearest runner up, F. O. McKenna, Liberal.

Counts tallied: Hansell 6,618, McKenna 4,791, Davis 2,961, McBride 2,182.

Following figures indicate how this section of the riding voted, in the order, McKenna, Davis, Hansell, McBride:

An Irish truck driver was charged with reckless driving and with having stopped his truck so suddenly that a car behind him smashed into him. The judge asked him why he did not hold out his hand. Pat indignantly answered: "If the poor fool couldn't see me truck, how in Havin's name could he see me hand?"

DISTRICT ELKS TO CONVENE IN BLAIRMORE TUESDAY

The district convention of B.P.O.E. District No. 2, which comprises Granum, Macleod, Coleman and Blairmore lodges, will take place following the regular subordinate lodge meeting in the Oliva hall on Tuesday night next, at which a large attendance is expected.

The local lodge session will open at 7.15 sharp, at which a large class of candidates will be initiated. Following the District session, refreshments will be served.

The occasion also marks the first anniversary of the reorganization of the local lodge.

R. H. McKenna, Liberal

Prime Minister, whose war-time policies were strongly endorsed at the polls on Tuesday.

NEW MAGAZINE RACKET REPORTED AT PENTICTON

It would appear that a new magazine racket has come to light over at Penticton. Of course, we are all familiar with the young man "working his way through college," but this is even a more clever scheme. According to Bob Lowe in his column in the Penticton Herald, this man doesn't waste a lot of time trying to convince hard-headed business men in his little deal. He concentrates on their secretaries with quite some success. With a good approach, he confides to her that she is a lucky girl and has a marvelous chance to win a subscription to a magazine he represents. The rest of the story we quote from Lowe:

He asks her if she will accept the magazine as a gift if she should win and, naturally, she says she will. He asks her to sign a form to this effect. It happened thusly to one girl who works in a local lawyer's office. A few hours after the "salesman" had left, she received a call from her bank, asking if she wanted them to pay out a certain sum to the salesman. She said certainly not.

Upon investigation it turned out that she had been given the magazine, all right, but she was expected to pay the postage, same postage amounting to the considerable sum of $3 per year. The magazine was probably worth twenty-fifty a year to buy in the first place.

I am pleased to say her employer got hot on the matter and I don't think that that salesman will try his particular line in that office again.

So watch your step, girls, when a travelling salesman comes bearing gifts.

Harvey Carmichael's rink was declared winner of the new Comopolitan hotel trophy, which was presented to him at the annual banquet last night.

LOW-COST 30-DAY VACATIONS TO THE PACIFIC COAST

Winnipeg, Mar. 25.—Arrangements have been made by the Canadian railways to operate a series of 30-day vacation fares to the Pacific coast during the summer holiday season, according to an announcement today by J. A. Brass, secretary of the Canadian passenger association, western lines.

These 30-day vacation fares proved so popular with the travelling public during the last two summers that this year it has been decided by the railways to make the fares available every week end from Sunday, May 31st to September 29th. Tickets will be good to Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, as well as to Jasper and Banff in the Canadian Rockies, from all stations in Ontario, west of Fort Arthur and Armstrong, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Another feature this year is that stopovers will be allowed at any point enroute on both going and return journeys. Tickets will be good in coaches, tourist and standard sleeping cars.

As a result of these low-cost fares, the railways anticipate a heavy tourist travel westbound during the summer months.

WELL KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER DIES, CALGARY

Resident of Calgary for the past twenty-seven years, Sidney Newman, 54, died in a Calgary hospital on Sunday.

He was well known in this southern district of Alberta as salesman for Conway's Limited. He was born in London, England.

Surviving are his widow, Grace; three daughters, Mrs. C. Colpitts, Edmonton, and Queenie and Vivian at home; two sisters, Mrs. R. Spencer and Mrs. D. Penny, of Denver, Colorado, and two brothers, Harold and Fred, of Edmonton.

He was a member of Concord Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and of the Alberta Commercial Travellers' Association.

The remains will be laid to rest at Calgary tomorrow.

FORMER BLAIRMOREITE PASSES AT McMURRAY

There passed away at Fort McMurray on March 16th, after a severe heart attack, Kate, beloved wife of Mr. Fred Grenier.

Mrs. Grenier, whose maiden name was Kate Pattinson, came to Blairmore from Scotland about twenty-five years ago. Prior to her marriage at Edmonton to Mr. Grenier, she was employed as waitress at the Comopolitan hotel in Blairmore for a considerable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Grenier left Blairmore in 1921 for Fort McMurray, where they resided continuously since. Mrs. Grenier was a native of Paisley, Scotland.

U.S. MAY LAY CLAIM TO ALBERTA BOND DEBTS

Diplomatic negotiations between the governments of Canada and the United States in behalf of United States citizens who own Alberta bonds and who have refused to accept interest reductions may be begun following the decision of the Privy Council that the Alberta administration had no legal right to arbitrarily reduce interest.

It is estimated that $50,000,000 worth of Alberta bonds are held in the United States, and that interest due American bondholders amounts to more than $5,000,000.

BREAD
Helps maintain high
National Health
Record

CANADA enjoys a high health record. And bread, more than any other single food, has helped make this possible. Bread supplies one-fourth of the food energy of the Dominion.

Rich in carbohydrates, bread is the best and cheapest source of human fuel. And, thanks to its modern milk formula, bread is also an important protein source, equal to meat in muscle building and repair.

Bread gives both quick and sustained energy. Eat more of it and keep healthy and vital for present-day emergencies!

A Doubtful Investment

Once more the periodic Dominion elections have come and gone leaving in their wake elation for some and dissatisfaction for others; but whether the results are pleasing or otherwise, there will be almost unanimity of satisfaction that the voting has brought to a termination the political campaign speeches over the radio, and once more the great radio audience of this country is able to turn to its favorite radio programs without fear of interruption.

Campaign managers and workers for political parties must surely have serious doubts whether the money they expend in extolling over the air the merits of their candidates and programs and the demerits of those who oppose them is spent wisely and well. If so, it seems likely that their misgivings are well founded, provided results of a survey made in the United States for the past two years by the School of Public and International Affairs of Princeton University, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, are applicable in this country. There is no reason to suppose they would not be equally authentic here, since there is not a great deal of difference in temperament and taste between the radio audiences on either side of the international boundary.

One must admit, of course, that any effective medium that can be employed to acquaint voters with the affairs of their country, their province or their local community is being put to good use, for no one will gainsay the statement that the foundation on which our democratic form of government rests is an enlightened citizenry and the extent to which knowledge and information on public affairs is disseminated determines the strength of the democratic system. If people listen in great numbers to political orators over the air, radio is playing an important part in citizenship education, but if the majority of radio listeners tune them out, much time, energy and money is being wasted and political workers are living in a fool's paradise.

Apparently Exaggerated

The survey referred to showed that nine-tenths of the families in the United States have radios fixed them tuned in on an average of five hours a day, but it was also found that listeners to political speeches, public affairs forum programs and cultural talks are largely confined to the more cultured section of the populace, those who are better educated and in the higher income brackets and this is admittedly the group who do the most listening.

"There is danger of exaggerating the size of the radio spellbinders' audience," declares Edwin Muller in an article commenting on the results of the survey, in a recent issue of The New Republic. "The survey," he adds, "through the facilities of Dr. George Gallup's organization, found that even President Roosevelt doesn't reach as many over the air as some might suppose."

"Though," he (President Roosevelt) is admittedly our most charming and persuasive political personality on the radio to-day, his speeches, except on unusual occasions, are listened to by less than one third of the radio owners. Only 25 per cent of the families owning sets heard his recent Jackson Day address. It is generally thought that his main support is from the lower economic levels. Yet on the lower economic levels one set in four is likely to be tuned in on him; on the upper, one in two. The better-educated people, who would in general rather get ideas by reading than by listening, are twice as likely to listen to the President. And the difference is apt to be greater in the case of other serious broadcasts."

Discussing another aspect of the question the same writer observes very significantly that: "The best means of spreading knowledge is the printed word."

A Frustrated Feeling

If statesmen of the calibre of President Roosevelt in the United States, and Hon. Mackenzie King, Dr. R. J. Manion and J. S. Woodsword in Canada, who must be assumed to be able to speak with authority, can only capture and hold 25 or 30 per cent of their potential radio audience, it can be left to the imagination to guess the amount of tuning out that is done when Bob Brown, Tim Smith and Mrs. John Doe, who may have only a vague idea of what they are talking about, whose voices are unpleasing, who present their material in such a manner that they are difficult to follow and whose names are unknown to the great majority of radio set owners outside a very narrow circle, go "on the air," to proclaim the policies of the parties to which they adhere and espouse the cause of some lesser light in the political sphere.

Even a good speaker with good, interesting material is suffering under a heavy handicap when he expects to give his message over the air, compared with the writer who puts his material into print for distribution. As Mr. Muller aptly states: "Listening is easier, but you get more out of reading." The reading-minded person, when he listens to a program that requires any thought, is apt to have a feeling of frustration, he isn't getting all that he should out of it."

Hard To Believe

Mrs. Roosevelt says the American Youth Congress is "in no sense sympathetic with the Russia of Stalin." It's still pretty hard, says the Windsor Star, to get away from the fact that 1,000 Youth Congress members in New York refused to condemn the Russian attack on Finland—with only five dissenting voices.

Peaceful Settlement

International Joint Commission To Iron Out Difficulty

The International Joint Commission, made up of three Americans and three Canadians, will consider in April the conflicting claims of Canadian and North Dakota ranchers to water rights along the Souris river, which flows into North Dakota from Saskatchewan and loops back into Manitoba.

Nobody cares except the ranchers themselves, and they take calmly for granted that whatever solution the commission arrives at will be satisfactory to both sides.

The unimportance of this news is the only significant thing about it. Such a dispute could be whipped into a good size border war if it happened, say, on a German boundary or a Russian frontier.—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

Planes in Ice Patrol

First Time They Have Been Used On Atlantic Coast

Due to conditions arising from the war, the Royal Canadian Air Force will co-operate with the Department of Transport in ice patrol work on the Atlantic Coast, it was announced at Ottawa.

Owing to restrictions preventing the use of radio communication between ships, the planes will maintain a constant ice survey and the information will then be relayed by land radio stations to shipping.

Never before have airplanes been used for ice patrol work on the Atlantic, though an air patrol was maintained for some time at Davis Straits collecting information when the Hudson Bay route was first opened.

The air survey of ice conditions in the Cabot Strait started two weeks before the commencement of the annual ice patrol by icebreakers. An officer from the Canadian Government icebreaker N.B. McLean will act as an observer in the ice patrol.

With the heavy movement of shipping, due to the war, special precautions are being taken this year in checking ice movements. All ice information office is being opened in Halifax which will keep friendly shipping posted. Icebreakers will work as usual in the St. Lawrence, using their radios to keep shipping advised. It is only on the Atlantic that ship radios are blacked out as a precaution against giving the location of the vessel to an enemy.

Volume Will Be Printed

Containing Speeches Made By Late Lord Tweedsmuir in Canada

Lady Tweedsmuir has arranged for the printing of a volume which will contain more than one hundred speeches made by Lord Tweedsmuir during the years he was Governor-General of Canada.

These speeches were made after careful preparation. The volume likely will be printed late in the year after Lord Tweedsmuir's memorial has been published.

After publication of the memoirs and speeches, Lord Tweedsmuir's last novel, based on some of his experiences in Canada and written around the fictional character, Sir Edward Leithen, will be printed.

It is understood at Ottawa that Lady Tweedsmuir will devote much of her time at her home in Elmside, England, to writing, already having published a number of books, some of them for children. One of her best-known works was "The Scint of Water," dealing with the depressed mining areas of Wales. She lived in the mining areas to gather material for the book.

Punishable Offence

Smuggling Attempts In Internment Camps Hit By Regulations

It has been made a punishable offense under the War Regulations Act to smuggle letters, newspapers, clippings and other articles in or out of Internment Camps in Canada, according to an order issued recently by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Acting Secretary of State. This became necessary after various attempts were made to evade camp censorship. Contravention of this order will be punished on summary conviction by a fine not exceeding $500 or 12 months imprisonment. Conviction under indictment allows for a fine not exceeding $5,000 or five years imprisonment.

A Famous Phrase

Used By Lincoln And Traced Back To Daniel Webster

Lincoln's most famous saying, "That government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth," is said to be based on Theodore Parker's illustration, which he used in an address on May 29, 1850, when he spoke of a democracy as "a government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people." And Parker's use of the phrase can be traced back to Daniel Webster, who, in 1830, said in a public speech: "The people's government, made by the people, made by the people, and answerable to the people."—Christian Science Monitor.

Warship For Convoys

One Heavy Craft Carrying Anti-Aircraft Guns Is Necessary

The necessity for assigning at least one battleship or cruiser to each merchant marine convoy has been one of the most important naval lessons learned by the Allies during 6½ months of war, French admiralty sources disclosed.

Only such heavy craft, it was explained, can carry the high-calibre anti-aircraft guns required for defence against high-flying bombers. Battleships and cruisers attached to convoy service, need not be modern since speed is not essential. Reduced to their practical role, they are merely "floating anti-aircraft forts."

War-time experience proved that smaller ships pitched too much in the open sea to maintain accurate fire against planes. The merchant vessels themselves could not mount heavy enough guns.

Both the U-boat and bomber threat has been reduced by the Allied practice of routing convoys through inland waterways and close to shore whenever possible, it was stated. Submarines cannot venture into shallow waters made tricky by tides and currents. Bombers attempting forays close to shore run the risk of being attacked by fast pursuit planes based along the convoy routes.

Admiralty quarters said France has built, and is building more, of the fastest torpedo boats in the world. The design of those now under construction is secret, but official sources hinted their speed and fighting power will surpass that of the V.T.B.-10, which in 1934 hung up a still unbeaten record of 55 knots. The V.T.B.-10 was one of a series of 18-ton "mosquito boats" carrying two torpedo tubes and equipped with 2,000-horsepower motors.

Britain runs France a close second in the "mosquito boat" field and is fast adding to her fleet of 20-ton, two-tube craft capable of 45 knots.

Just Obeyed Orders

When the Light Brigade charged, it was not up to them to reason why, they were just to do or die. When Captain J. C. Townley was told to command the R.M.S. Queen Elizabeth on her epic trip to New York, says W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Star, he explains that he wasn't asked about bringing the ship over. He says he was simply told to bring her over.

Rare Books Exhibited

Three hundred rare English books and manuscripts sent to the United States by seven London dealers who wish to protect their material from war hazards, are on exhibition in Manhattan, New York. The items are valued at $60,000. Works ranging from a set of Jane Austen letters to a rare volume of Chaucer are included in the exhibit.

Sergeant Was Surprised

When He Recognized Ticket Collector Who Took His Voucher

A South Coast Port, England.—A sergeant returning from France on leave and rushing to his train, handed his leave voucher book to the ticket collector.

The collector tore out the green pass and returned the book. The sergeant took it, and the collector smiled pleasantly.

Then the sergeant, amazed, written over his face, snapped to attention. The collector was King George. His Majesty, who had been watching officers and men landing from France, "filled in" for a while as a ticket collector to see how the routine was carried out.

To Reduce The Weight

Lighter Wheels For Motor Vehicles Gradually Coming Into Use

Cast aluminum wheels for motor vehicles are coming into growing use, partly because of increased knowledge of the use of alloys, partly because of engineers' continued efforts to cut the unnecessary weight out of automobiles.

The ancient belief that a heavy car holds the road better than a light one was long ago laughed out of the laboratories, where it was known that proper balance and proper springing were the means to stability. How to achieve them and at the same time provide the most comfortable arrangements of passenger room has been one of the major automobile problems.

Their lightness recommends aluminum wheels because they reduce unsprung weight, always a trouble to designers. The shock to the passenger and the vehicle's cargo when a wheel is thrown upward by an irregularity in the road is in direct proportion to the weight of the wheel.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Botanists say that the earliest flowers of spring are also the most ancient and primitive.

BRITISH TROOPS ROUT ENEMY IN SHARP SKIRMISH

With the British Expeditionary Force in France—British troops took revenge for the Nazi surprise raid on one of their Maginot line outposts two weeks ago. In a savage skirmish five Germans were killed and one was taken prisoner.

The Britons suffered no casualties in their operation which occurred close to the scene of the March 5 clash, the first large-scale encounter between British and German troops on the Western Front.

The new encounter was announced in a French communiqué, which said:

"Activity by reconnaissance elements. On the front held by British troops there was an encounter of patrols which turned entirely to the advantage of our Allies."

The British command also announced the clash, stating a British patrol had "successfully attacked" a German patrol during the night and routed it after a "violent" fight. The enemy left five dead on the field and one was taken prisoner by the British, it was stated.

The German attack March 5 was against a British outpost east of the Moselle river and close to the Luxembourg border. Two Britons were killed and one was wounded.

General Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief of the British forces in the field, flew to a Royal Air Force air base to congratulate personally pilots and crews of aircraft which have been carrying out reconnaissance flights over the German west wall.

The commander-in-chief flew from the airfield close to general headquarters in a small, fast monoplane piloted by Air Vice-Marshal C. B. M. Blount, commanding the air component of British forces in France. Viscount Gort, who is a qualified pilot, followed the route taken by the plane with the help of a map spread out in front of him. Members of his staff followed in a large plane.

Assurance For Sweden

Russia Says She Wants No More Territory in Scandinavia

Stockholm, Sweden.—Official Swedish circles declared that Russia has given assurances she has no more territorial aspirations in Scandinavia. The assurances, said to have been given to Sweden, did not make clear whether they had come voluntarily or at the request of Sweden for clarification of points in the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

Swedish circles have shown worry over certain aspects of that treaty which project Russian railway connections to the Swedish border.

The Soviet gave assurances, official circles said, that these rail transport facilities across the centre of Finland would be used only for commercial purposes.

Merchant Cruisers

Two Canadian Passenger Vessels To Be Armored

Ottawa.—Two Canadian passenger vessels, the Prince Robert and the Prince David are being converted into armed merchant cruisers, it was shown in a list of war supply board contracts.

A $600,000 contract for conversion of the Prince Robert was awarded the Burrard Dry Dock Company Limited of North Vancouver, B.C., on Feb. 9 and on the same date a $535,000 contract for conversion of the Prince David was awarded the Halifax Shipyard Limited of Halifax.

Protest From Denmark

Say Bombs Were Dropped Along The Danish Coast

Copenhagen, Denmark.—The Danish government instructed its minister in London to protest against violation of Danish territory by British planes which bombed the German island of Sylt.

Ten bombs were dropped along the Danish coast and a mixed commission of Danish military and technical experts conducted an investigation to determine the nationality of the planes which dropped them.

Issues At Stake

No Threat To Neutral Allies Win The War

Toronto.—Hon. James H. R. Cromwell, United States minister to Canada, in an address here said that if the Allies win the war he could see "no threat to the well being of the peace, or to the social and economic order of the neutral democracies, if they large or small."

As to the outlook should Germany triumph, he asked what kind of rule was being applied in countries which had been victims of the Nazi Lebensraum (living room) plan of extension. "Did the Austrians, Czechs, Slovaks or the Poles have a voice in the determination of their present form of government?"

Speaking before a joint meeting of the Canadian Club and the Empire Club, Mr. Cromwell said he was at a loss to understand how any intelligent citizen of any neutral democracy could state with conviction that he has no interest in the outcome of the war, or that there are no issues at stake which can affect him.

As an economist, Mr. Cromwell said the present conflict appeared to him "not only as a clash between rival political concepts, but also as a clash between rival and totally different economic systems of which the forms of government are but the outward manifestations."

"Do not let yourselves be deceived by the frequently proffered description of the democratic-capitalistic system as one which is old and outworn, ready for the scrap heap, and to be superseded by some futuristic ideology. For it is the latter which has misruled and misgoverned the world from time immemorial."

"It was not until the industrial revolution took place early in the 19th century that true democracy on a broad basis of universal suffrage and individual freedom, as we conceive it on this continent, became possible. To me, capitalism and democracy are as closely united as Siamese twins—one cannot live without the other."

Hitler Fails

Report Says Mussolini Would Not Scrap Italian Policy

Paris.—An authoritative source said Adolf Hitler failed during his meeting with Premier Mussolini to induce the Italian leader to scrap the Italian policy which Rome has pursued since war began.

This source said Hitler tried to get his axis partner to join Germany and Russia in a division of political influence in southeastern Europe, but it thus, feeling free to continue the policy he adopted at the outbreak of the war, declined to commit himself.

Reports reaching here from competent sources in neutral capitals stated the German plans called for complete exclusion of British and French influence in the Balkan zone. The gloomy appearance of Hitler after the meeting—in contrast with the smiling Hitler—together with the optimistic attitude of high Fascist quarters in Rome, were interpreted here as confirmation that Mussolini returned from the meeting with his freedom of action unimpaired.

Buildings Standardized

Designs Have Been Prepared For Air Training Centers

Ottawa.—Standardization of buildings and hangars at schools being established under the British Commonwealth air training plan was announced by the national defence department.

Forty standard designs have been prepared by the engineer services branch of the Canadian militia and the works and building divisions of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Suggestions by British firms that standard portable steel hangars be constructed were discarded in favor of Canadian designs and materials when it was found cost of important steel sections would be high.

Of timber construction, hangars will have a span of 112 feet and a depth of 128 feet. The connector-type truss will be employed, providing for rapid erection and also for easy removal to other sites. Only permanent features will be the paved floor. All wooden sections will be given a chemical treatment making them fireproof.

Halifax Tests Alarm

Halifax—Halifax has held its first practice blackout in four and a half months. On a signal from 40 air raid precautions sirens, street lights went off and other lights throughout the city were obscured for 15 minutes. Purpose of the blackout was to test the new alarm sounding system.

Attack On Chamberlain

Was Launched Recently By An Illegal Broadcasting Station

London.—An illegal broadcasting station, calling itself the "New British Broadcasting Station," went on the air and attacked Prime Minister Chamberlain and his policies for 20 minutes, claiming he led the country into "the most ridiculous and unprofitable war of history."

The announcer said Mr. Chamberlain had outstripped by a year the scriptural span of life and "this year has been the most unfortunate of his existence. . . He is too old to maintain the responsibility which he has incurred."

The broadcast ended with the first bars of "God Save the King."

SOVIETS OPPOSE ANY ALLIANCE AGAINST RUSSIA

Moscow.—Tass, Soviet news agency, announced it was authorized to state that Soviet Russia would regard any "defensive alliance" between Sweden, Norway and Finland as "aimed at the U.S.S.R." and as directly contradictory to the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

The foreign press alleges that negotiations are going on among Finland, Sweden and Norway on conclusion of a so-called "defensive alliance" for the purpose of military protection of the frontiers of Finland," said Tass.

"It is also alleged that the Soviet Union does not object to such a 'defensive alliance' among Finland, Sweden and Norway."

"Tass is authorized to state that these reports on the attitude of the Soviet Union do not correspond to the facts."

The agency added that public statements made in the Norwegian parliament made it clear that such an alliance "would be a aid against the U.S.S.R. and would directly contradict the peace treaty" between Finland and Russia.

Article 3 of the treaty of March 12 binds each party not to conclude any alliance or join any coalition against the other.

(The governments of both Norway and Sweden have announced they were considering conclusion of an alliance with Finland since the latter was forced to accept peace at Russian hands. President Kaiko of Finland has declared such an alliance a necessity.)

(Whether Moscow would hold article 3 stood in the way of the proposed alliance, however, has been a subject much discussed in Oslo and Stockholm.)

The Finnish-Russian peace treaty was ratified by the presidium of the supreme Soviet.

Hero Of Boer War

London.—Lt.-Gen. Sir Aylmer Hunter-Weaton was killed in a fall from the tower of his Scottish home overlooking the Firth of Clyde. Sir Aylmer, 76, served at the Dardanelles and in France in the last war and was a hero of the Boer war.

Cannot Stop Shipments

Britain Unable To Control Trade Through Black Sea To Germany

London.—The government informed the House of Commons it is unable to prevent shipments of oil through the Black Sea to Germany.

Ronald Cross, minister of economic warfare, in reply to a question, said under the Montreux convention, belligerent warships are unable to pass through the Straits of Bosphorus to the Black Sea to establish contraband control.

This pact, signed in 1936, provided that the entrances to the Black Sea be closed to warships of belligerent nations unless they are serving under League of Nations mandate or helping a victim of aggression under a mutual assistance pact concluded within the framework of the league and to which Turkey is a party.

Britain and France have a pact of the type with Turkey signed last year.

France To Buy Horses

Purchase Of Canadian-Bred Horses To Begin In April

Toronto.—Purchase of Canadian-bred horses by the French government will begin in April, J. W. McCallum, assistant director of production services for Canada, told the Canadian National Livestock Record board here.

While declining to make any estimate on the number of horses to be purchased by the French government, McCallum said that an order for 6,000 horses was given recently in the United States.

Seize Opium Cargo

Gibraltar.—A $1,000,000 opium cargo was part of the prize when the German freighter Unhefels was captured off the African coast last November, it was announced as the ship arrived here for examination in drydock. Seizure of the 7,661-ton ship, which a prize crew first took to Freetown, Sierra Leone, on the West African coast, was announced in London Nov. 8.

Second Jap Protest

Claim Russian Soldiers Fired On Civilians Of Sakhalin Island

Tokyo.—An informed source said Soviet Russian soldiers fired on Japanese on two occasions March 16 on Sakhalin island, incidents over which Japan's foreign office twice has protested to Russia.

The second time, this source claimed, Russian fire was directed against Japanese civilians.

The Japanese foreign office repeated its protest to the Russian embassy. The first reports of the shooting said there were about a dozen Soviet and two Japanese casualties in a border clash. Russia has the northern half of the island, Japan the southern half.

The newspaper Hochi urged prompt action to force a Soviet Near Eastern advance which is inevitable, and added that the Orient already had felt "the results of the Finnish-Soviet truce."

Mission Is Ended

Summer Welles Said He Had Received No Mediation Proposals

Rome.—Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state for the United States, disclosed no peace plan or mediation proposals had been offered him by any belligerent or other European government during his fact-finding conversations on behalf of President Roosevelt.

Welles, speaking a few hours before leaving for Geneva to sail home, also declared emphatically that he had not conveyed any suggestions for peace to any European power.

Welles' remarks were in a press statement which said: "My mission has been solely one of gathering information for the President and the Secretary of State as to present conditions in Europe."

R.A.F. BOMBERS MAKE A RAID ON NAZI AIR BASE

London.—The Royal Air Force blasted away at Germany's Sylt island air base for more than seven hours in by far the longest sustained raid in the war—hitting back at the Nazis for their 85-minute attack on Scapa Flow.

Eyewitnesses on the nearby Danish coast and of Rome said 22 bombs exploded and four tremendous, earth-jarring blasts had been heard, and that one bomb "undoubtedly blew up an ammunition depot."

British news agency reports said the Hindenburg dam connecting Sylt island with the mainland was bombed and that one British plane was shot down on the north coast of Sylt. The dam was reported hit in a previous British raid.

Whether this was the opening gun of an intense air offensive could only be conjectured, but there was an ominous tone in the warning of Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons that Germany must bear "responsibility for the consequences" of the recent raid on Britain's Scapa Flow base.

Sylt has been raided by British planes on previous occasions, but never with such intensity.

Sylt is considered the jumping-off place for German planes such as those which raided Scapa Flow and which have repeatedly punished British and neutral shipping.

Dispatches from nearby Teender, in Denmark, told of the heaviest cannonading heard since the start of the war.

The number of planes participating was not known, and the information given out here was of the briefest.

Observers said the raid apparently was the carrying out of what Prime Minister Chamberlain has proclaimed frequently, that "blow for blow" would be struck in the war against the Nazis.

An enormous detailed photograph of the air base on Sylt taken by Royal Air Force flyers, was published in the London press late in January. Easily visible were hangars, barracks, garages, cranes and a number of German seaplanes.

The sortie against the Nazi island stronghold followed the statement in the house of lords by Lord Strathclyde, Labor, that the German attack on Scapa Flow "removed any obstacle to our bombing German supply and naval bases."

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax replied that he did not disagree "as to the very legitimate consequences" that might be drawn from the attack on the naval base in the Orkneys.

BRITAIN SENDS AREPLY TO THE PROTEST OF ITALY

London.—In a 10-page reply to Italy's protest of March 3 against the Allied economic warfare, the British government asserted its determination to use every legal weapon against Germany—"an enemy who has on repeated occasions flagrantly disregarded the principles of international law and even the common precepts of humanity."

The problem which prompted the Italian protest—the Allied decision to seize German coal aboard Italian ships—has since been amicably settled, but the government took advantage of the occasion to give a complete outline of its position on economic warfare and the obligations of neutrals.

The British note pointed out Germany would have a marked advantage if it were left free "to pursue with impunity practices in total disregard of international law and moral principles," while the Allies were expected at all times scrupulously to observe these principles.

"The British government has no intention of initiating the barbarous methods of its opponents from which Italian ships and nationals have suffered in common with those of other neutral powers," the note said.

"They have therefore at all times sought to ensure that their action conformed to the accepted principles under which they exercised their belligerent rights. But they are unable to accept the disabilities that would result for them were they to refrain from all full exercise of their rights."

Rome.—Premier Mussolini talked defence measures with his chief of staff, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, as informed Fascist quarters expressed belief that the coming of spring would result in renewed pressing action on the war front.

The government received without comment the British reply to Italy's protest of March 3 against the Allied sea blockade of Germany, as it hit Italian imports of German coal.

Authoritative Rome quarters described Mussolini's conference with Graziani, who is believed to be in direct command of Italy's northern frontier, as "very important," but declined to disclose what was said in conversation with Adolf Hitler at Brennero recently.

Aiding The Empire

Newfoundland Raises A Force Of 5,000 Men

St. John's, Nfld.—Newfoundland has raised more than 5,000 men for service of the empire in the war, Justice Commissioner Emerson disclosed here.

Two thousand foresters and 625 men required by the British admiralty for special service already have crossed the Atlantic, he said, while an additional 1,000 men for general service and 670 for the Royal artillery had enrolled.

Besides these 822 applications had been received in response to a call for mercantile seamen. Applications also were being received for service in the Royal Air Force and a proclamation calling for enlistments in this branch was to be issued shortly.

Volunteers for the general naval service exceeded the number asked for, and the extra men were being held in reserve while awaiting another call.

Fins Leave Hanko Area

Every Means Of Transportation Has Been Pressed Into Service

Hanko, Finland.—This once-thriving city of 8,000, formerly known as Finland's "Gibraltar of the Baltic," rapidly is becoming a ghost town as its Finnish residents flee to new homes with all the goods they can carry before the Russians come.

Trucks, trains, buses and even bicycles are being pressed into service in the town and for the whole length of the Hanko peninsula. Every resident, authorities said, is bent on one purpose—getting his belongings safely across the new frontier before the Red army takes possession under the terms of the Moscow peace treaty.

Hanko was leased by the Russians for 30 years and will be used as a military base.

ESTIMATE OF COST OF FIRST YEAR OF WAR IS $500,000,000

Ottawa, March 25.—War cost to Canada in the coming fiscal year is estimated at $500,000,000. This is nearly three times the expenditure in the first year of the last war. Canada's military contribution in the war of 1914-18 was largely one of men. Now the contribution is one of men plus machines, and the machine heavily increases the cost.

Here are a few cost comparisons with the last war:

An army division costs about twice as much. This is due to mechanized equipment.

At this stage of the last war, Canada's naval equipment and personnel consisted of two light cruisers and 1,500 men. In the first full fiscal year, the Naval Service spent less than $4,000,000. The Naval Service now has a personnel of 6,000 officers and men. Its strength is six destroyers and a flotilla leader, with five naval minesweepers and 20 auxiliary craft. Estimated cost for the first fiscal year is $40,000,000. The building program calls for the construction of 90 vessels totalling nearly $50,000,000.

In the first year of the last war, Canada had no air force. The Royal Canadian Air Force now comprises 8,000 officers and men. This does not include the British Commonwealth Training Plan. Estimates of Canada's share in the plan, up to September 1st next are $50,000,000. During the full fiscal year ending March 31st, 1941, it is estimated, Canada will spend approximately $100,000,000 on the commonwealth scheme. This sum is part of the estimated cost of $500,000,000.

HAYSOM—HALLIWELL

On Easter Monday at 10 a.m. in St. Alban's church, Coleman, Alwyn Griffiths Haysom, son of Mr. W. H. Haysom and the late Mrs. Haysom, and Wilma Dorothy Halliwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell, were married by the Rev. John R. Hague, rector.

The bride, attired in a rosewood dress with blue accessories, had as her bridesmaid her younger sister, Audrey, who was costumed in teal blue. The bride carried Talisman roses and her attendant carried American beauty roses and sweet peas. A friend of the bridegroom, Frank Fraser, was best man.

Mrs. M. Clifford played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the church. Miss Peggy McDonald sang "Because," while the register was being signed.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, only the immediate relatives of the families being present. The health of the bride was proposed by Rev. J. R. Hague, and responded to by the bridegroom. During the afternoon they left for Calgary and Edmonton, to make a brief visit with friends of university days before settling down in their home in Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell McDonald and son Jimmy, of Blairmore, were in town over the Easter week end, the guests of Mrs. McDonald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Hopkins—Innisfail Province.

THE RAIN BARREL

The old-fashioned rain barrel, loved since our childhood.

The iron-bound barrel out under the spout.

Though full of small wigglers and stubby-tailed tadpoles,

Still brings back sweet memories no plumbing can float.

The flavor of vinegar, salt or molasses,

Soon yielded to scrub brushes and stout wooden spoons;

A few days of rain and the barrel was ready

For playing at fishing on hot afternoons.

The barrel when dry made a grand roller coaster,

Or a good place to hide when we played "hide and seek."

The rusty tin dipper that once hung beside it

Has gone with the rags used for stopping the leak.

Down through the eaves-spout the swift falling water,

Or gentle drip-drip of the last bit of rain—

Makes music as sweet as the finest of fiddles

When showers are drenching the hill-side and plain.

So when the new plumber, the capable plumber,

Pipes water to us from the spring on the hill,

O leave us our barrel, our rain-water barrel,

It still holds a place that no plumbing can fill.—E.M.T.

THE CANADIAN LEGION OVERSEAS PARCEL POST

It is well known that British fighting forces are the best fed in the world. But, however substantial and nourishing army meals may be, there are many little delicacies that cannot be provided by the military authorities. Knowing from their own experience in the last war how such "extras" can brighten the lives of troops on active service and knowing, too, how complicated it is for the folk at home to send parcels to their boys overseas, the Canadian Legion has established for their convenience an overseas parcel service.

This service, in co-operation with the world famous organization of Thos. Cook & Son Limited, buys, packs and dispatches parcels on behalf of relatives, friends and others interested, for delivery to the troops abroad. The parcels may be sent to members of Canadian and British forces overseas, both in England and France or wherever the fortunes of war may take them. They may also be dispatched to members of the Royal Navy in any part of the world.

A selection of standard parcels is available at set prices which include postage and insurance. A selective list covering a wide range of goods is offered, and from this a parcel of any desired value can be ordered. The parcels are made up in England and, for your convenience, the postage from there to the final destination has been calculated individually according to the weight of each article, and is included in the price shown. You can therefore construct a personal parcel and estimate at once the complete cost without any worry as to further postage expense.

As far as possible Canadian goods will be used in making up parcels to Canadian soldiers. The department of trade and commerce and the foreign trade bureau of the Canadian chamber of commerce are co-operating with the Canadian Legion overseas parcel service towards making a supply constantly available in England.

The services of buying, packing, declaring to customs, dispatching and insuring against all risks at present insurable at Lloyds are provided free of any cost to you. The Canadian Legion offers you this service in line with its whole policy of furnishing the utmost co-operation to the fighting men of the Dominion. The parcels will be clearly your own personal gifts to the addressees, and your personal messages may be sent with the order form for enclosure in each parcel.

The Legion's agents are fully conversant with all British and foreign government and post office instructions as to packing, customs declaration, etc., and by their expert packing, handling and insured dispatch can offer every possible security. The prices shown cover transmission of your order by mail to England, but parcels can also be ordered by cable upon payment of the necessary cable charges.

While the service is established primarily for the convenience of relatives and personal friends, it is suggested that any person not having a member of their family or friends in the armed forces overseas may wish to show their interest in our fighting men by sending gift parcels. For such the service is also available and arrangements are made with the authorities to ensure that these parcels are presented to specially selected recipients without close relatives, or who would not normally receive "extras from home."

Standard package selective lists include choices of value $1.15, $2.30, $3.00, $3.45, $4.60, $5.00, $6.90, $9.20, to include chocolates, candies, biscuits, shaving supplies, polishes, toilet articles, cigarettes, groceries, etc. For further particulars apply to your local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Donna forget! Open season on gifts on Tuesday next in Blairmore—Indoor! "Be present at our tables, Elks?" If you're an Elk, appear before the Big Gun at 7.15 sharp.

IN EARLY BRITAIN

We have traced the art of brewing from the Greeks of 500 B.C. up to Ancient Rome. The Roman soldiers introduced it to early Britons. Previous to their invasion the usual drinks of the early Britons were water, milk and mead (an intoxicating drink made from honey). Beer being suitable to the climate, and so easily made, by an agricultural people with plenty of corn, it was gladly welcomed and soon became the national beverage.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I wish to extend to you my sincere thanks for the splendid support accorded me during the recent provincial election campaign.

Although we did not meet with the success we anticipated, we have the satisfaction of knowing that we waged a clean and close fight.

The great reception I met with and the enthusiasm manifested by all was to me a great source of encouragement.

Again thanking you for your efforts on my behalf.

Very sincerely yours,

"Nine dogs they've got, have they?" cried Cameron. "Watch this team, to-day!"

The four huskies, lean as timber wolves, started stiffly with the light sled. They had not travelled far through the dusk of the river valley when they passed the frozen eddies of what had been two dogs driven until they died in harness, and then cut loose. At daylight they reached McQueen's camp of the night before. And there in a bush was a message. It read:

"Trouble over gold. Dogs weak. Come quick! H."

Desperate with the realization that he must reach her at once, if he hoped to save her—reach her before the madmen, ahead, destroyed each other and her, Alan went to his team.

"We're going to see Heather soon, boys!" he said, dropping his mittens to stroke the massive heads. "She's only a few miles away. There's seven dogs ahead of us, but we're going to run them off their feet. They haven't got Ungava hearts in their chests and Ungava bone in their legs. We're going to run and run and run with the light sled—until we find her!"

Then he said to the black lead dog: "It's going to be all we've got left, Tough—your and I. All day and into the night—all we've got left for Heather! Then there'll be no more Marche!"

Far in the southeast the sun lighted on their last long day, for dogs and men were near the end. The long, up-hill, Kokkak trail, with its cruel odds against the Ungavas was conquering at last. The iron bodies and stout hearts in the shaggy chests were giving their all. Soon, like the dogs they had passed on the trail, they, too, would reach their last mile; soon, the legs of the half-crazed men who urged them on would crumple under him on the ice. And yet, men and dogs held to the trail.

Cautiously the two men watched the bends in the river, sweeping the sky far in advance with the glasses to look for a sudden angling of the sled tracks to the shore which might mean an ambush. Then, in the afternoon, to their astonishment, they found the bodies of three dogs abandoned on the trail.

"Noel, we've got them! We've got them, now!" Cameron cried excitedly, hugging the Indian, the lead-dog. "It's four dogs to four! The Ungavas win!"

"They are done!" panted the grinning Indian, whose swart skin sank in hollows beneath his high cheekbones. "We see them soon!"

Through the early dusk, like famished wolves close to their kill, marched four dogs, tails down, tongues lolling, following two straggled men, both pining gaunt waists, who often stumbled as they walked, only to catch themselves and go on, their numbed legs shifting woodenly back and forth as they led their creeping sled.

The stars lit the river ice. The spruce went indigo black and still, like six avenging figures, four wolf-like dogs, and two men with eyes glittering with the light of victory, crawled on up the river trail. They stopped, now, every few hundred yards, to save the strength they would soon need. Then, as they turned a bend, Noel cried:

"Look! Between oars! De fire-light on de spruce!"

Ahead, in the blackness of the scrub, was the glow of a fire! It seemed to Alan as if his heart would burst. She was there, there by that fire—Heather! They had reached her—at last! His brain went giddy with joy. It couldn't be true! They had reached Heather!

He turned and threw his arms about Noel's shoulders, while his knees shook with his weakness. "We've got her, Noel! We've got her!" he sobbed. "John! John! We've got—Heather!"

Their plans were quickly made. They moved into the timber and, throwing a salmon to each of the exhausted dogs, made them fast with wire leashes, which they could neither chew nor break. While they rested, for the swift shooting that was coming would call for steady nerves, they wound rawhide around the inside length of the bows of their snowshoes to muffle any possible click. Then Alan slung McQueen's shoulder holster, with the automatic, to his belt and, taking their rifles, the two men began the stalk of McQueen's camp from the timber in the rear. They counted on the dogs being too dead with fatigue to wake until they reached the fire. Then it would be quick work. Nearing the camp the two stalkers separated to close in with cocked rifles from different angles.

At last Alan stood where he commanded a view of the fire which lit the surrounding trees with its flickering glow. Near the fire a tarpaulin, banked with snow, had been stretched across two saplings to reflect the heat. In the snow hole, beside the fire, huddled a bulky figure in hooded parka. Beyond, in the trail from the dogs, stood the loaded sled. The four dogs, too exhausted to note the silent approach of the stalkers, lay somewhere asleep in the snow.

The shed tent faced away from the anxious eyes of the man who sought the girl's familiar parka. He could not see her. Under that snow-banked canvas Heather doubtless slept, dead with fatigue. He moved closer through the black murk of the spruce and stood directly behind the man hunched at the fire. This was McQueen. Where was Slade?

"Wall, Tom," muttered the man in the parka, "I wouldn't listen 'n' reason. Got tricky! For now it's your turn tonight—payin' for it! It's a cold bed out there, eh Tom?" A bellow of a laugh followed.

"Figgered on John McQueen's gold and his rifle, too, Tom, old pal!" chuckled McQueen. "I said: 'Hands off her!' But 'y' were too smart—got tricky! Well, Trudeau got his and now—y' got yours! The gold's mine—all mine, Tom—and her, too!"

McQueen twisted around where he sat and faced the river shore. "Sleepin' warm, Tom?" he jeered. "If you're cold, I'll bring your bag!" For a space he muttered into his hood before he went on, aloud, talking into the fire. "With this Indian fish and meat I'll reach the cache. Then, Cameron, good-by to you! Heavy chance you had—with four dogs! We started with six." He checked, "and got a present of six more with fish and meat thrown in. Pity you didn't get what the Indians got at the bend! Too bad it wasn't you, Cameron—too bad!"

A black body lunged from the gloom and catapulted onto McQueen's back.

Thirty feet from the man raving at the fire a rifle covered the middle of his back. But the shed tent, beyond, was in the line of fire.

Then a husky somewhere in the snow suddenly woke and started. The husky yelped feebly, then was silent. There was no sound from the other dogs, too bad to stir from their beds.

McQueen got stiffly to his feet and lurched in his parka as he squinted into the blackness beyond the circle of fire glow, listening. He swung around and stared toward the river shore.

The rifle now covered his heart. "You here, Cameron?" he roared. "Well, you're too late!" Drawing a black automatic from his parka, he started toward the snow-banked tent. "Come and get her, now!"

Before the man in the murk could fire, a black body lunged from the gloom and catapulted onto McQueen's back hurling him headlong into the snow. There was the muffled explosion of the pistol as a knife flashed in the firelight, flashed again and again. Then the dogs broke loose from the spruce beyond the sled.

A girl's voice cried: "Alan! Alan!" And the yearping arms of Cameron reached her.

Above the sprawled body of McQueen a Montague's hollow eyes glittering, stood, stiff as a spruce, while he held the half of his knife to his forehead and repeated:

"Sleep well, John McQueen and Napayoo."

"Heather!" Alan held the girl in the sleeping bag to his pounding heart. "You came—at last!" she sobbed, hysterically, clinging to his neck. "It's been so long, Alan—so long! I was asleep! Then I heard your name and saw Noel leap."

Still A Secret

Famous Bomb-Sight Used By U.S. Aviators Is Carefully Guarded

Not so very long ago a route frequently travelled by American military planes was the airline across Canadian territory from Detroit to Buffalo. On at least two occasions, if our memory is correct, American warplanes have crashed or made forced landings on Canadian soil and on each occasion Royal Canadian Mounted Police have rushed to the scene of the mishaps to guard secret parts of the planes from prying eyes.

In one instance, in the crash of an American plane at Parkhill, Ontario, it was stated that the part of the plane the Mounties were particularly concerned that nobody should see was what all popular writers on military affairs regard as the Americans' greatest military secret, their famous bomb-sight. If one can believe these writers the intelligence services of all nations—excepting, of course, Canada—have sent their best spies and spent millions of dollars, all without success, trying to discover the details of the bomb-sight which enables American military aviators to drop nine out of ten bombs into a sink bath from a height of twenty thousand feet.

Canada obviously did not have to spend money nor send spies, although far as we know no attempt has been made to make use of the information which was available on Canadian soil. In any case, the Mounties seem to have done a good job of guarding the secret since European countries are said to be still sending spies trying to learn it—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Canadians Are Fortunate

And Harrison B. Williams, Of Ottawa, Tells Us Why

Daily I hear the roar of airplanes but I do not run for cover in fear of enemy bombers.

At night I can light up my house as brightly as I wish for there are no blackout regulations.

No Government restrictions tell me how much food or clothing my family is allowed. We can have all that we can afford.

My spring shopping list does not include gas marks for any of us.

My newspaper gives me the truth about conditions at home and abroad, omitting only those items which would be of military value to our enemies.

I am free to join any lodge, club or group I may choose.

On the other hand, neither my sons nor I are compelled to join any military or semi-military organizations or labor battalions.

I can join any political party, criticize its leaders, its policies and speak freely without being sent to a concentration camp or before a firing squad.

I do not fear that my family or neighbors will report me to the Gestapo and I know that my telephone line has not been tapped by my Government.

I am on friendly terms with my fellow-Canadians, be they Protestant, Catholic or Jew and I can speak freely and trade with them with no fear for my safety or theirs.

I am free to worship God without any restrictions from the government as to when, where or how it must be done.

I do not have to register with the police, in fact the only registration card I carry is one I voluntarily carry in case of accident.

When I travel within this or neighboring countries, which I do freely and without passport, I see no sandbags, A.R.P. signs, anti-aircraft complementations nor other harbingers of a rain of death.

I think of those in other countries as international friends who respect my rights and my country's borders as I respect theirs.

In brief, I am a Canadian, heir to a beautiful land, a multitude of privileges, unlimited freedom . . . all of which I try to merit and shall try to preserve for my children.—Ottawa Journal.

SELECTED RECIPES

BUTTER TARTS

- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup of Five Golden Corn Syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated rind
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 tablespoon St. Lawrence or Durham Corn Starch
- 2 tablespoons cream or milk
- 4 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup seedless raisins or currants

Scald cleaned fruit with boiling water, drain and while still warm add all other ingredients having first mixed corn starch with milk and beaten eggs. Stir and mix thoroughly. Fill tart pans already lined with rich paste, 5/8 full and bake in hot oven until crust begins to brown, then lower heat to very moderate until filling set. Nutmeg may be used instead of lemon if desired. Makes one to one and a half dozen.

LAYERED CHERRIES AND RASPBERRIES

- 1 package Cherry Jell-O
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 cup cherry juice
- 1 cup seedless, canned white cherries, halved
- 1 banana

Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Add fruit juice. Arrange cherries in bottom of mold. Pour on Jell-O, being careful not to disarrange cherries. Slice banana over top of Jell-O and chill until firm. Unmold. Serve plain or with cream. Serves six.

New Exhibit Planned

Magical Features Will Enliven Gas Display At New York Fair

An entirely new exhibit to be called Gas Wonderland will be sponsored at the New York World's Fair by the Gas Industries of America, which became the first 1939 exhibitor to announce such extensive plans for a complete overhauling and revision of its last season's exhibit.

Singing trees, talking flagstones, flaming cactus plants, disappearing statues, smoke trees and brilliant gas and water fountains will be a few of the new features that will enliven the 1940 gas exhibit. These phenomena will be housed in the Mystery Gardens, where a dwarf will greet visitors by performing the "miracle" of lighting gas through columns of water.

Gave Up His Cars

Motorist Enthusiast In England Turns Them Over To Army

A motoring enthusiast who owned a small fleet of cars surprised his friends when he told them he had converted them into tanks. They had visions of mobile miniature homes, but he did not mean that, reports the London Daily Sketch. In the continental motor world a "flat" is short for any small vehicle used for carrying goods. He has had the seats removed and has presented his cars to the A.F.S. In the meantime he rides a bicycle.

Four Indians, found guilty of breaking and entering and stealing liquor from the government store at Creston, were sentenced to jail terms of nine months, seven months and one month, respectively.

Just as we were considering what life would be for a non-Aberhartist in this province for the next four (or five) years, a young lady entered our office to sell us a pamphlet telling us that our soul could be insured. Boy, oh boy! Ain't it a happy fellin'!

It is reported that one voters' list in Coleman carried the name of a person who had been dead for three years. Well, even so, there's probably worse than that. Take, for instance the number of names left off the list (probably willfully) in Calgary, Blairmore and other points.

One of the most pleasing features of the recent Alberta provincial election was the return of Angus Morrison, Labor candidate for the Edson constituency. Angus is well and most favorably known in all parts of the mining districts in Alberta, and is a man capable of fighting for the interests of labor. It constitutes a real win against Alberta's dictatorship.

James Hartley, Social Credit, eked out with a mere majority of 23 (skiddoo) over Gordon Walker, Independent.

In its heading, the Shaanavon Standard carries the following: "Liked by many — cussed by some — read by everybody."

Albert Crowder, who has been attending the Alberta School of Technology and Art at Calgary, was down for the Easter vacation.

Have you noticed that the modern newspaper office is contained in a one-storey building? In other words, why the necessity of two different stories?

A lady approaching a local polling booth on Thursday afternoon (last, remarked to a guy intercepting her for a vote for Duke: "I don't want God or man between, I want justice!"

Last week denial was made by Rev. Roy Taylor, ex-M.L.A., that he was in line for the government liquor vanguard at Blairmore. But another rumor had it that he was to be Blairmore's liquor commissioner.

During the past week The Enterprise has added no less than forty-two new subscribers to the list. One or two discarded during the week are not very much missed. We are not looking for anything for nothing, but are out to help anyone with possibilities.

Alberta's only Social Credit newspaper, issued for bye-election purposes, referred to all opponents of the Social Credit party as "hash hounds." Wonder how Able will enjoy the presence of a number of these "animals" in the legislature.

Seven Calgary provincial candidates forfeited their $100 deposits: Mrs. Edith Gostick (S.C.), Mrs. H. D. Tarves (S.C.), Frank Moodie (Ind.), D. V. Mitchell (Labor), R. T. Alderman (C.C.F.), Lieut.-Col. Harry Pryde (C.S.) and Col. Norman Dingle (C.S.).

BRICK FOR SALE — Reclaimed brick, absolutely clean and in excellent condition. Painted brick, $15 per 1000; square brick, $16 per 1000. Apply to JOE RUZALSKI, Coke Ovens, Police Flats; P.O. Bellevue. (Mar 29/40)

The new Alberta provincial park at Beauvais Lake has an area of 154 acres.

The Czechoslovakian Bata shoe industry was not given assistance by the Canadian government, according to Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, who said that both he and Mr. Lapointe believed that Canada had enough shoe factories, but explained "if a man with capital wanted to risk his money in Canada, there is no way we can stop him." The Bata company has established a plant near Belleville, Ontario.
